Lone Candidate Runs For AWS President

Donalee Beary, a Hardin junior who promises to keep the social restrictions issue alive, is the only candidate for AWS president in tomorrow's general election.

Her only opponent, Sandy Smith, a junior write-in candidate from Idaho Falls, Idaho, has declined to run.

"Unfortunately for person reasons, I will not be able to run for AWS president," Miss Smith said. "I hope the women students will take this opportunity to find out about AWS and what the other candidates have to offer as potential officers."

Although Miss Smith was not a declared candidate for president, she received the 10 necessary write-in votes in the primary making her eligible to run in the general election. She is the AWS social chairman.

Miss Beary is determined to keep the argument over social regulations alive.

"I won't let the social restriction issue drop," she said. "I will support those who support me, which is the job of the AWS president."

"We will refer any rule changes to the administration for approval, and if approval is not granted, we will want valid reasons for the disapproval," she said.

If elected president, Miss Beary hopes to complete the revision of the AWS rules and to keep MSU women more informed of AWS activities.

She added:

"The AWS is delegating a committee to look into housing in Missoula, but we have not selected a committee to go to the administration.

"I want a representative from each wing of Knowles Hall and from each wing of the freshman dormitories. These additional representatives will help to keep the women informed and a part of AWS."

"I think the J-Council functions as effectively as possible and the rules revision will help any weaknesses. The J-Council puts a strain on the members, because they are judging their peers."

She said to keep the women informed about AWS activities, a mock J-Council will demonstrate its functions. All the AWS meetings are open to the public and the women will be encouraged to attend.

"The voices of the women should be heard," Miss Beary said.

"AWS can make recommendations to the administration. If the women want dormitory improvements such as phones in the rooms, candy or soft drink machines in the recreation rooms, the dormitory representatives should bring these things to AWS."

Candidates for vice president are Sharron Lee, Miles City junior, and Carolyn Hughes, Cathlamet, Wash. sophomore.

Two sophomores, Nancy Sasse of Wilsall and Jean Smith of Kalispell, are the candidates for secretary.

Alice Lee Lund, Williston, N.D., sophomore, is the only candidate for treasurer.

Negro Minister Asks Right To 'Walk Streets in Dignity'

A Negro minister told Montana Forum Friday that he has not "been able to walk down the streets as a free man."

"And," the Rev. James Hall said, "I do not want to wait the rest of my life to be able to walk the streets in dignity." The Rev. Hall is an Episcopalian minister and graduate student.

America's Bill of Rights and Declaration of Independence make no sense to a colored person because they are not applied to the Negro, Rev. Hall said.

"The integration problem is a national problem. In the North, discrimination against the Negroes is done by custom, while in the South laws and customs combine to discriminate against the colored person."

"The basic reason for discrimination is that the white people think that the Negro is inferior and sub-human."

"The Negro is stamped from the cradle to the grave as sub-human, and he is separated from the white people because he is sub-human."

"If a white person can accept Negroes as humans and citizens, the white person can not logically deny the Negroes their rights. But, if the Negroes are less than human, then naturally the colored person can be denied his rights."

The Negroes are citizens of the United States who are completely forgotten.

"Negroes are denied the right to live where they can afford to live," Rev. Hall continued.

White Neighborhoods

Many neighborhoods are restricted to white people, he said.

When Negroes move into a previously non-colored neighborhood, white people panic and sell their homes at a loss. There would be no devaluation of property if white people did not panic when a Negro "busted a block," Rev. Hall believes.

"Negroes are denied access to public institutions which are supported by both Negro and white taxes. It is a tragedy when a United States citizen can not go into a library to read a book."

"When I travel, I have to carry a book which will tell where I can stay and eat," Rev. Hall said.

He believes that businesses licensed to serve the public should perform their duties regardless of race.

And the Law

Montana and 33 other states have public accommodation laws which outlaw discrimination by businesses which hold licenses to serve the public. The civil rights bill in Congress provides for a public accommodation law, he added.

Rev. Hall said he has not encountered any discrimination in Missoula since he arrived here in September.

His solution to the problem of racial discrimination is to start practicing the Ten Commandments, the Bill of Rights and to pass legislation in Congress which will bring order to America.

"When the Negroes do not have equal rights, then there is no order in the nation," he said.

"If the federal government will not redress the grievances, then we do not have a federal government. Giving the states the right to legislate integration laws would lead to dissolution of the federal government."

"The battle against racial discrimination may take longer to win in the North because discrimination is more subtle up here; but the Negroes do not want to wait the rest of their lives for equality," Rev. Hall concluded.

Mousavi in Court for Arson

Former Montana State University student, Zeia Mousavi, was arraigned in court yesterday on a charge of third degree arson in connection with the burning of a late model automobile owned by MSU Prof. James A. Leedy.

Sheriff's deputies reported that bond for Mousavi was set at $4,000, but that it was not posted, and Mousavi was returned to the county jail where he had been held since his arrest Friday.

A preliminary hearing is scheduled for March 5 on the arson charge. If sufficient evidence is found at the hearing Mousavi will be bound over to district court when a plea of innocent or guilty may be entered.

Mousavi was arrested at his apartment, 333 Eddy Ave., at 6:45 p.m. Friday on a warrant issued by County Attorney Harold J. Pinsoneault charging him with the felony. He was held in solitary confinement pending his Monday arraignment.

Intensive investigation by Missoula fire department officials led them to believe that the fire was definitely an arson case. Two burned-out cans of turpentine were found in the car, windows had been rolled down and a door had been left ajar to facilitate fast burning. Leedy told officers that he had not left the turpentine in the car.

Claims adjuster Kenneth E. Arthur said the Leedy car, valued at $3,445, was a total loss with the interior burned out and wiring destroyed.

Assistant Fire Chief Robert E. Kelly said two trucks were sent to the Leedy home Thursday night because Leedy's 10-year-old son was believed to have been in the car when the fire started.

Two persons on their way to the Leedy home had noticed someone in the car and believed it to be Leedy's son. As Mrs. Leedy opened the front door in response to their knock, the car burst into flames. Mr. Leedy rushed to the car to find that his son was not inside, but was burned around the face in an attempt to locate his son.

Mousavi, 24, a student from Iran, was charged with disturbing the peace last August and was questioned in connection with the arson attempt on the MSU Fine Arts Building. Mousavi was accused of shouting and throwing vases after the state fire marshal, who had been investigating the Fine Arts fire, asked him to put out his pipe.

Charges filed against Mousavi and signed by Andrew C. Cogswell, dean of students, were never pressed. He was arraigned but never brought to trial. Mousavi, who went on a hunger strike after being jailed, was released on $150 bond collected by his friends.

Mousavi withdrew from school last November after harsh words exchanged with faculty members. Dean Cogswell said it was for the good of both Mousavi and the school that he withdrew. Although he did not register winter quarter, he has remained in Missoula.

'The Girl of the Golden West' To Travel East on State Tour

By DIAINE STRATAS
Kaimin Reporter

Can Minnie save him? Will she outwit the vigilante party holding her sweetheart Ramerrez captive?

Audiences in seven Montana towns will know the answer and enjoy a grand opera when "The Girl of the Golden West" is presented by the touring MSU student cast.

Chosen in honor of Montana's Centennial, Puccini's three-act opera is based on the story of American producer David Belasco. Set during the California gold rush era of 1848-50, the plot centers around the amours of Minnie, owner of the Polka Saloon.

This western belle captivates the hearts of the sheriff and the badman, but she falls in love with the badman. The ensuing trials and frustrations of being the notorious Ramerrez's best girl occupy the rest of the story.

The fine arts school will send 85 cast members, musicians and stage hands to Billings, Miles City, Plentywood, Poplar, Great Falls, Butte and Helena, March 20-29.

This is the largest group of troupers to go on the spring road tour. The music, drama and art departments are collaborating on the production of this all-school show, which draws its talent from all MSU students.

The show will be seen by MSU audiences April 2-5 in the University Theater.

Centennial Queen Contest Now Has Fifteen Candidates

Fifteen contestants have entered the Miss Centennial Queen Contest which will culminate March 7 in the University Theater at 8:15 p.m.

Eleven of the contestants attend MSU: Susan Barkley, Sharon Emery, Polly Everett, Jolly Johnson, Carol Jorstad, Dianne Morrow, Sue Noreen, Linda Phillips, Kitty Ann Quigley, Pam Walker and Sharon Wetterling. Pearl Johnson, an employee of a local business, has also entered.

Out-of-town entrants are Marilyn Sand, Kalispell, Margaret Peak, Polson, and Jean Westwood, Trego.

Contestants will be judged on the basis of appearance, talent, personality, poise and character.

The queen contest will be a kickoff for Missoula Centennial activities.

Pioneers and living descendants of pioneer families will be honored during the contest program. Persons of families residing in Montana since Jan. 11, 1869, may qualify as pioneers.

Judges, contestants and pioneers will be guests at a luncheon March 6 in the Governor's Room of the Florence Hotel. Mrs. C. W. Leaphart, a resident of Montana for many years, will speak on the state's history.

Notes on a Current Cultural Situation While Sitting in on Existentialism

The Beatles, Cassius Clay and Lee Oswald's mother may not seem related in any phenomenological way, but they are. Or so we doxically perceive, whether it be by actional or automatic intendings to it. Let us explicate, existentially-wise.

They all make lots of noise, you see. And they all make lots of money for it.

The Beatles have come, laughing all the while except when performing, and gone, hauling with them many millions of moola. They are a huge parody on U.S. rock 'n' roll. It's all a big joke to them, except the money. As the New York Times put it, "In their sophisticated understanding that the life of the fad depends on the performance of the audience and not on the stage, the Beatles were decidedly effective."

Yes. And Cassius Clay has hollered and hollered, about himself, and has made a cool million bucks for it, by his own vociferous admission. He may get his lip buttoned tonight by a malvolent bear named Liston, but what price glory.

And Lee's mom has been squawking so loud and long to Earl Warren and his legal compatriots that she, inevitably we suppose, has been offered a reported $150,000 for her memoirs.

In other words, it pays these days to yell and scream and stomp and shout and clap and hoot and screech.

So. . . AAAAAAAAAIIIIIIIIYYYYEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEE!—whw

... In Unnecessary Peril

From The Louisville Courier-Journal

The question of when a President must be considered unable to carry out his duties is still more thorny. Who is to make such a grave decision? Surely not the man himself, who might be in a coma, or lost in mental illness. Surely not the Vice President, who would be promoting himself to the top.

Legal provision should be made without delay. It would seem logical to give the responsibility to a blue-ribbon commission named in advance, with three members nominated each by the President, the Senate and the House.

No system which relies on human beings can be perfect, but this one would safeguard the national interest as well as any that seems obtainable. To wait for perfection is to wait forever. And any system written into law could be altered later, in the light of further experience.

Of the last four Presidents, one has been assassinated, two have been the targets of assassination attempts, and the fourth has suffered a severe heart attack while in office. Fate surely has been trying to warn the unheeding people of the United States. We must act now, while the tragedy of Dallas is still fresh in our minds, or place ourselves and the whole world in unnecessary peril.

Kaimin Play Review

MSC's 'Waiting for Godot' Called Excellent Production

By VICKY BURKART
Kaimin Drama Reviewer

Exceptionally fine acting in Montana State College's performance at the University Theater last Friday night of Samuel Beckett's "Waiting for Godot" rates the highest praise, but the occasional tediousness of the play itself has drawn some criticism.

"Waiting for Godot" is concerned with two tramps, Vladimir and Estragon, who are waiting for Godot, a mysterious person who never appears.

A literary controversy over the play deals with what character Godot (God?) is supposed truly to represent. Whatever Godot's identity, the theme of the play is almost surely the wait for salvation, with the two tramps symbolizing the two thieves who were crucified with Jesus.

Pozzo and Lucky, as a master and a slave, are symbolic of the relationship between mind and body.

The MSC performers were outstanding in these parts.

Estragon, played by Robert C. McLaughlin, and Vladimir, played by John Price, performed with a professional polish. As pleading, angry or foolishly happy, these two actors seemed to become part of one another on the stage. Their interactions were especially effective; their perfectly timed witticisms were hilarious. McLaughlin's facial expressions were particularly good.

Ben Tone, the director of the play, performed the part of Lucky the slave with outstanding ability. Tone, who has had 20 years of acting experience, including both stage and television, is as exceptional an actor as he is a director. He is the newest addition to MSC's drama staff.

Pozzo, Lucky's master, was played by Tusco Heath. Heath shone as a strong actor who nearly drew hisses with his inhuman treatment of Lucky. Pozzo was as pitiable in the second act as he had been hateful in the first act.

The major criticism of the performance deals with the plot of the play—it seemed to move too slowly in many parts. Repetition became tedious. After a slow section in the play, however, the nearly slap-stick humor which was sprinkled throughout seemed to put the uncertain wait of the two tramps back on a rapid pace.

The speed and agility with which the actors spewed out witticisms was a compliment to the fine directing. There was not a punch line was lost in poor timing or over-riding audience laughs.

One of the finest scenes in the play centers on Lucky's dance "in a net" and his succeeding speech. One of the cleverest is Estragon's expounding on life while ignoring Pozzo's cries for help.

The scenery and costuming were simple and effective. The set—a single large rock and one scraggly tree—was enhanced by excellent lighting effects. The rising moon was outstanding.

Student Protests Editorial Position On Billings Politics

To the Kaimin:

Mr. Wood wrote in his Thursday editorial, "Billings and the Billfold," that Billings favors expansion of EMCE "because the degree would bring students to EMCE, which would mean more money for Billings." Has it ever occurred to Mr. Wood that there be some persons who, stimulated by a motive other than financial gain, are sincerely interested in improving the quality of instruction at EMCE?

Has he considered that Congressman Battin opposed Knowles Dam because a private concern can provide an equivalent service more economically, and not because the dam would be too far from Billings to cause any financial profit there?

Mr. Wood wrote that the sincere, conservative Mr. Orvin Fjare opposed the construction of Yellowstone Dam and thus lost the election "because Yellowtail Dam was certain to bring money to Billings." If Mr. Wood had relied on election records, something more substantial than his own opinion, he would know that Mr. Fjare carried Yellowstone County with 15,289 votes to 13,034 for Mr. Anderson. To disregard blatantly a fact which does not fit into a preconceived (and perhaps mistaken) theory is neither prudent nor becoming to one in a position of influence such as Mr. Wood's.

Students Praised For Raising Funds

To the Kaimin:

The recent efforts of Mary Lynn Petterson, Sigm Chi Fraternity and Kappa Kappa Gamma Sorority on behalf of Dick Stokes should be commended. Because of the interest of these students, this handicapped boy is assured of funds to enable him to remain in this community so that he can receive the special help which he needs.

All students involved in the fund raising campaign are entitled to special thank yous for the concern they have shown for their less fortunate fellows.

Why Revolution in Zanzibar?

a column of disputation

By SARIBOU KONE

Sophomore, Political Science
Mali, West Africa

Most press channels (ignoring the actual reasons that brought Zanzibar into the sharp focus of world politics, a few weeks ago) made us believe naively that the Castro current from the Caribbean Sea has reached the Indian Ocean. This misleading conclusion happens to have nothing to do with the reality of the situation, if we take a look at the history of these islands off the East African coast.

During the seventy-three years of English rule, Zanzibar and Pemba were governed by a sultan, but administered by a British resident. The Sultan appeared as "the stooge of colonialism" in the eyes of the people, especially the educated segment. Moreover, the last Sultan, Seyyid Djamchid Ben Abdullah Ben Khalifa (an ex-shipman in the Royal Navy), supported Cheick Hamadi's conservative and isolationist "National Party of Zanzibar," a party that was decaying before the wind of Pan-Americanism.

The political split of this party, later, between the group of the Sultan and that of Mohammed Babu, weakened the political system of the recently independent Zanzibar. In addition, any form of monarchy is considered as inadequate to the majority of African states. All of these circumstances brought the majority in Zanzibar on the side of the party in opposition, the Afro-Shirazi party, led by Cheick Abeid Karume, a man who is known for his enthusiasm towards African unity.

The Sultan, therefore, was a ripe fruit bound to be plucked by the natural process of a national feeling. Before the revolution, he demanded military assistance from Britain to protect him in case of internal conflict. But when Karume instigated his coup, neither England, nor the United States, which has a space tracking station there, lifted a finger to halt the revolution.

The fact that the revolution was not directed personally at the Sultan is illustrated in the fact that his house, his family, and his property have all been respected. Moreover, the over-throw was not the result of a bloody conflict: there were only eight people killed, and 200 wounded. These are the facts, but the news sent out of Africa, though the distorted lenses of exaggerations by the foreign journalists, displayed only exaggerations and even humor.

In the East, it was believed for a while that the coup was perpetrated by the West, since neither England nor the U.S. did anything to prevent it, and since Russian diplomats were arrested in the Congo, a short time before the coup, and sent back to Moscow. Ironically, the Western powers labeled the coup, "a plot founded in communist subversion." Even more startling is the interpretation given the coup by journalists who were raised in a tradition which explained any change in terms of racial discrimination: the cause of the coup was racism, whose aim it was to exterminate the Sultan and the other Arabs in Zanzibar, the Arabs who constitute only twenty per cent of the 310,000 people who inhabit the two islands of Zanzibar and Pemba!

There is no reason in any free African country. But there is, and there always will be, more than a petty racial discrimination: an open war against all those who intend to perpetrate colonialism, or establish a neo-colonialism, no matter whether they are diplomats, teachers, Moslem, Christian, black or white!

Forester Displeased By Sneak Preview

To the Kaimin:

I would like to question Mr. Bull's ability to write movie reviews for "The Quiet Front." Since the show at the Fox this weekend, "Charade," had a certain air of suspense about it I was more than pleased to have the Kaimin critic familiarize me with the ending. While watching the movie I could not help thinking how much his article had enhanced the plot. I hope he continues to do as outstanding a job in the future.

Aggies Quell Fighting Grizzlies 103-81

By DAN FOLEY

Special to the Kaimin

LOGAN, Utah—With three men scoring more than 20 points, the Utah State Aggies rolled to a 103-81 victory over the MSU Grizzlies here last night.

Troy Collier, 6-9 USU center, playing his last home game, scored on 12 of 21 field-goal attempts to lead his team with 28 points. LeRoy Walker, 6-0 Aggie guard, dumped in eight of 12 field attempts and four of four free throws for 20 points. Wayne Estes, 6-6 forward, hit half of his 16 attempts from the field and added 21 points.

Guard Tim Aldrich led Montana with 19 points but it was 6-7 center John Quist who did most of the offensive work, scoring seven of nine from the field and four of five free throws for 18 points.

MSU opened the game with a 1-2-2 zone defense which was somewhat successful in Saturday's 64-55 loss to Oregon at Eugene, but 5-11 sophomore guard Myron Long popped in three long Utah field goals to force the Grizzlies into a man-for-man defense.

The Aggies swished the nets time after time in the first ten minutes to build a 35-16 lead. The margin see-sawed from there and Utah State led 53-38 at half-time.

The Aggies hit 48.9 per cent of their first half shots and outrebounded Montana 24-21.

Collier, maneuvering under the basket, scored 20 of his points in the first half.

MSU closed the margin to 58-48 with 16:18 remaining in the contset and threatened to make a game of it until USU hit nine straight points.

The Aggies hit two baskets for each one by the Grizzlies in the next seven minutes to gain their largest lead, 93-63, at the 6:13 mark. The Grizzlies then scored 11 straight points.

Gene Widmer, 6-3 reserve forward, hit a free throw with 36 seconds left to put Utah State over the 100-point mark for the fourth time this season.

Collier grabbed 14 rebounds and Estes 12 to lead the Aggies who had 55 to Montana's 44. Quist had nine, all in the first half, to lead MSU. Quist fouled out with 11:29 remaining and the Grizzlies trailing 73-53.

MSU scored on 47.8 per cent from the field and USU 47.6 per cent.

Grizzlies Lose Two to Oregon Ducks

Special to the Kaimin

EUGENE, Ore.—The MSU Grizzlies effectively used a 1-2-2 zone defense here Saturday night to battle into the final minutes before dropping a 64-55 decision to the Oregon Ducks.

The game was a striking contrast to the Friday night fiasco in which the Webfoots trampled the Tips 97-67.

In Saturday's game, the Grizzlies bounced between a three- and eight-point deficit in the second half until 6-7 center John Quist fouled out with 7:31 remaining.

With Oregon unable to penetrate the shifting MSU zone and Quist hitting five of five field goal attempts and four of four free throws, the Grizzlies had closed the margin to four points, 48-44, with 8:25 remaining.

Immediately after Quist left the game, the Ducks upped the margin to nine points and coasted to the win. Tim Aldrich led MSU scoring with 16 points, Quist had 14 and guard Gary Meggellin 10.

Forward Steve Jones set a new Oregon accuracy mark from the free throw line with 15 for 15 and led Duck scoring with 21. Center Jim Johnson, hitting six of 14 field goal attempts, added 14, and reserve guard Dave Kafoury connected on six of 10 over the Montana zone.

Quist and Jones led rebounders with 10 each.

The Grizzlies' zone defense placed them in good rebounding position and they grabbed 40, two more than the Ducks.

The Grizzlies also shot better from the field, .396 to .367. The difference in the score was at the free throw line, where Oregon made 20 of 25 to the Tips 13 of 15.

Ducks 'Stampede'

Friday night the Ducks almost ran the Grizzlies off the McArthur Court as they jumped to a 12-2 lead in the first four minutes and steadily increased it to a 53-30 half-time margin.

The Ducks could do no wrong, shooting .594, and the Grizzlies could do no right, shooting .317.

Oregon coach Steve Belko, who seldom uses reserves, had an ample opportunity to see his bench Friday as only one starter, 6-3 sophomore guard Jim Barnett, played in the second half.

With a lineup almost exclusively of sophomores the Ducks still managed to outscore the Grizzlies in the second half and all but one of the 14 men who played scored. Only starting Duck forward Larry Cooley was shut out.

All 13 MSU players hit the scoring column.

Barnett led scoring with 21 points, hitting 9 of 14 field goals in his 26 minutes of action. He also pulled down 11 rebounds to lead both teams.

Guard Jim Pramenko had 14 for the Tips, and forward Tim Aldrich 12.

Oregon finished with a .467 shooting mark, the Grizzlies with a .324.

Oregon had 62 rebounds, MSU 52.

Friday Night—

Oregon (97)—Jones 12, Johnson 10, Gleason 6, Barnett 21, Jennings 11, Franz 8, Brockmeyer 8, Patterson 3, Potter 2, Yates 6, DuShane 3 and Kafoury 7.

Montana (67)—Aldrich 12, Rice 2, Quist 4, Meggellin 2, Pramenko 14, Fullerton 4, Sullivan 4, Jensen 1, Persha 5, Law 6, Peck 5, Harper 4, and Peterson 2.

Saturday Night—

Oregon (64)—Jones 21, Cooley 2, Johnson 14, Gleason 8, Barnett 7 and Kafoury 12.

Montana (55)—Aldrich 16, Law 4, Quist 14, Meggellin 10, Pramenko 9 and Peterson 2.

Tip Matmen Split Oregon Matches

The Grizzly wrestlers split two matches in Oregon last weekend, bringing their record to five wins, six losses and two ties.

Montana defeated the Oregon varsity 18-15 at Eugene Friday and lost to the Oregon State freshmen 16-14 at Corvallis Saturday.

Montana results:

123 lb.—John Black won twice.
130 lb.—Dick Southern split.
137 lb.—Bob Palmer won twice.
147 lb.—Bob Kelly split.
157 lb.—Dick Treat split.
167 lb.—Dennis Meyer lost twice.
177 lb.—MSU forfeited twice.
Heavyweight — Dean Hermes won and tied.

LJB Plans for Soviet Wheat Shipment

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson called Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz to a White House conference yesterday afternoon in a continuing effort to clear the way for shipment of wheat to Communist nations.

The White House said Johnson "has a plan of action" to deal with the maritime union boycott against loading ships with wheat sold to the Soviet Union and its satellites. But Assistant Press Secretary Malcolm Kilduff would not indicate what the plan is.

Johnson talked with Wirtz by telephone yesterday morning after the Secretary of Labor had returned from four days of futile negotiations in Florida in an attempt to get the ships loaded.

Kilduff told newsmen Johnson is confident that AFL-CIO President George Meany "will do everything he can to get the labor unions to look at this in a responsible manner."

Asked whether the President has a plan of action in the event the maritime unions stick to their demand that at least half the wheat sold to Communist nations be moved in American ships, Kilduff replied: "Naturally he does, but I'm not prepared to discuss it."

Thomas W. Gleason, president of the International Longshore mens Union, AFL-CIO, said Sunday that not one bushel of wheat destined for Communist nations will be loaded in U.S. ports until federal officials guarantee that half of it will go in American ships.

he hasn't quit his fight to have his name on Montana's primary election ballot.

Francis F. Leonhard of Great Falls, who admitted he hasn't had time to organize his proposed American Party for Progress, said he may go to federal courts.

Leonhard, 43-year-old retired insurance executive, asked the Supreme Court yesterday to compel Secretary of State Frank Murray to place Leonhard's name on the ballot.

The high court in an unsigned order dismissed the proceeding within 30 minutes after hearing the petition.

Woman Selected For Dallas Jury

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—A working mother of six children was chosen yesterday as the third juror at the Jack Ruby murder trial. The Texas Supreme Court, meanwhile, refused to bar television viewers of the slaying of Lee Harvey Oswald as panel members.

The first women selected for the jury was Mildred McCollum, 40, a secretary and the wife of a machinist. She could have claimed exemption because of her children but chose instead to remain on the panel. She joined two men previously selected.

Albania Captures USSR Buildings

MOSCOW (AP)—Little Albania has seized a group of Soviet Embassy buildings after harassment that began in December, the government newspaper Izvestia said yesterday. Three Soviet caretakers were told to get out of the country.

Izvestia said two buildings used by the embassy staff and an administration building had been taken over by police in Tirana.

Peace on Cyprus Remains Distant

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—U.N. Secretary-General U Thant kept doggedly at the task yesterday of trying to sweep away obstacles in the path of an agreement for peace on Cyprus.

There were no outward indications he was having any success as dispatches from Cyprus reported the Mediterranean island was turning into a gigantic armed camp with thousands of Greek and Cypriot youths receiving weapons training.

Ex-Kaimin Editor Injured in Wreck

A former Kaimin news editor and 1961 graduate of the MSU School of Journalism, Penelope Ann Wagner, 25, was injured in a car accident Saturday near Wallace, Idaho.

Miss Wagner, who is from Billings, was taken to Providence Hospital in Wallace with head and leg injuries.

Hospital officials reported yesterday her general condition as good.

Miss Wagner was riding in a small car which slid into the back of a freight truck on an icy stretch of U.S. Highway 10 about six miles east of Wallace.

CONCERNING U

Tonight's piano recital by Rosemary Leavenworth, instructor of music, has been cancelled. It was scheduled for 8:15 p.m. in the Music Recital Hall.

Faculty members of the music school have proposed that a Varsity Band be formed next year if enough interest is shown by students. This concert group would meet Wednesdays between 8 and 9:45 p.m. Participation would earn each member one credit per quarter.

Students from all departments may join the group. Interested persons are asked to call the Music School office, at extension 313 between 8 a.m. and noon tomorrow and Thursday.

The Missoula Crippled Children's Association will sponsor "The Four Preps in Concert," 8 p.m., Saturday at the Higgins Avenue gym. Tickets will be on sale from 1 p.m., Saturday at the gym, Jereve's, the Music Center in the Holiday Village and the MSU Bookstore.

An Air Force ROTC cadet awards luncheon will be at noon today, Territorial Rooms of the Lodge.

The Clay-Liston Fight will be televised on cable, channel 6, at 8 p.m. tonight. Those interested may watch the fight at the TV studios.
